Backdrop

A rapidly growing private and business enterprise sector has created a new demand for social science research for business management, commerce, marketing, media and other fields. The need of the hour is to develop a sound methodological base of research among educationalist and researchers. Subhrajit Chatterjee (2015) in his work on 'Social Science Research in India: Basic Challenges' underlines that most of the researchers in India are not well equipped with latest research techniques.

To counter the above challenges, School of Management Studies, National Institute of Technology Calicut joins hands with Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) to offer a "Ten-day Research Methodology Workshop for Research Scholars in Social Science".

About the Workshop

The research methodology course for Ph.D students in social science is expected to cover the basics of research methodology focusing on theoretical and practical inputs. The course gives training to the participants to apply them to a problem, which includes developing the theory, choosing methods, material, scientific tools and training in techniques relevant for the problem chosen.

Programme Objective

- ❖ To provide knowledge on theory, roles of theory and building theory
